DETAILED ACTION

The previous Office action, mailed 02 May 2006, did not address the proper set of claims at issue. In accordance with a telephone call to Sam Freund, the proper set of claims, comprising claims 1-6, are addressed below.

Claim Objections

Claims 1-6 are objected to because of the following informalities: the claims contain indefinite language; in particular, a proliferation of "if necessary" and "as for example" limitations which cause the metes and bounds of the claims to be unclear. Appropriate correction is required.

Claims 3-6 are objected to under 37 CFR 1.75(c) as being in improper form because a multiple dependent claim should refer to other claims in the alternative only. See MPEP § 608.01(n). Accordingly, the claims have not been further treated on the merits.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

The claims are given their broadest possible meaning consistent with the specification. See MPEP 904.01 ("[t]he breadth of the claims in the application should always be carefully noted; that is, the examiner should be fully aware of what the claims do not call for, as well as what they do require. During patent examination, the claims are given the broadest reasonable interpretation consistent with the specification. See In re Morris, 127 F.3d 1048, 44 USPQ2d 1023 (Fed. Cir. 1997)").

Here, the broadest possible meaning disregards statements of intended use which do not add structural limitations to the claim; and, for claim limitations which are not required to be fulfilled (such as "if necessary", "and if wished", "as for example", "can be"), such limitations are treated as not being required to exist. Should applicant wish the claims to be limited by such limitations, the claims must clearly set forth the necessity of their presence.

Claims 1 and 2 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Gozzini (US 6,665,428 B1). Gozzini discloses the claimed invention, an apparatus and software for controlling that apparatus, comprising separate capacitive [108], resistive [206a], and reference [206b] electrodes, individually addressed in a sequence controlled by the software, where the resistive sensors are used to determine if a living finger is at that position (by measuring bio-characteristics of the skin on the finger), where only capacitive sensors that correspond to areas completely covered by a finger are used to measure the fingerprint. The system generates output signal to determine if a finger is detected, and may initiate fingerprint acquisition automatically by the detection mechanism. See columns 3-4, and Figures 1, 2a, 2b, 3.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
